

Nooit meer in de rij bij de paskamers

26-08-2019 14:32

How we do things differently.

Ethical Factories

We build close relationships with our factories (the same ones that produce your favorite designer labels) and ensure that their work environments meet our standards. Then we document each factory and share its story on our website.

Sustainable Sourcing

We partner with progressive, innovative mills and factories who prioritize the environment in their supply chain—from repurposing byproducts to recycling plastic bottles. We also work to educate customers on more sustainable practices.

Timeless Design

We're not big on trends. We want you to wear our pieces for years, even decades, to come. That's why we seek out family-owned businesses who take pride in their craft and employees, and use the finest materials to make products that stand the test of time.

Transparent Prices

From materials to labor to transportation, we reveal the true cost of our products and offer them to you without the traditional retail markup. You can find the full breakdown on each product page online.

EVERLANE

In de nieuwe winkel van het modemerkt Everlane vind je de paskamerservice 'Save my spot'. Bezoekers hoeven in het filiaal in Los Angeles niet meer in de rij te staan voor het bemachtigen van een paskamer, maar krijgen een berichtje op hun telefoon zodra er eentje vrij is.